Jesus is always giving His followers reassurances to help them face what lies ahead. A few Sundays ago, we saw this with His Transfiguration on Mt Tabor in the presence of Peter, James and John, after announcing to them the prophecy of His passion. He was showing them the future was not all gloom and doom, for there was 'light at the end of the tunnel'. Now, at Bethany, just a few kilometres from Jerusalem, where He would very soon meet His fate, He is again reassuring His followers that He had the power to overcome evil and death, with the raising of Lazarus. What issues in our lives do we need the Lord's reassurance with right now?

Sacred Heart Cathedral sits on the traditional country of the Awabakal and Worimi peoples.

We acknowledge their cultural heritage, beliefs and their continuing relationship with the land, pay respect to their Elders past, present and future, and commit ourselves to working together for reconciliation and justice.

We are first invited into each of their lives, into their struggles and baggage. But once introduced to Jesus and the invitation to spend time with him, we are invited to witness such a transformation of each of his first followers.

Each Thursday evening join us to share a meal, watch and discuss the episode.

REFLECTION

Do We Believe?

By: Fr. Lawrence E. Mick

In today's Gospel story of the raising of Lazarus, we are confronted with a crucial question that Jesus asked Martha: "I am the resurrection and the life; whoever believes in me, even if he dies, will live, and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?"

As its placement in John's Gospel suggests, this account is a clear foreshadowing of the Easter event that would soon follow. The question Jesus asks is not just about Lazarus but also about himself. Faith in the Resurrection is key to Christianity.

This goes beyond simply believing that Christ rose from the dead, for our religion rests on the pattern of death and resurrection at every stage of our lives. When we celebrate the third scrutiny today with the elect, we are challenging them to base their lives on that motif, to be willing to embrace the multiple deaths that love demands with the faith that new life will arise each time we cast ourselves into the hands of our loving and life-giving God. We know of course, that as we challenge the elect, we also challenge ourselves, for we are all on the same journey of ever deepening conversion.

Whether you combine the scrutiny petitions with the general intercessions or pray them separately, you might focus some of the general intercessions around this theme. There are many groups in our society who find hope difficult: refugees, immigrants, the unemployed, LGBTQ people, minorities, etc. You might pray a petition for each group that they may trust in God's power and come to new life beyond their struggles.

The petitions for the scrutiny could include similar language. As you name the evils we must confront, pray for new life to replace each of them. As you name the good that needs to be strengthened, pray for the grace to trust in God's ability to bring life even out of death, to lift up our efforts by divine power.

Planners might also ask themselves this week if they are ready to embrace new life after all the work required to prepare Lenten and Easter liturgies. The deaths we must embrace are often tied to surrendering our time and energy for the sake of others. Providing good liturgy to parish assemblies is not easy, and it often requires dying to our own needs and desires for the sake of the common good. Do we trust that God will bring us to new life, even in the midst of our demanding efforts? Are we open to the ways that God may surprise us, giving us new life and hope in unexpected ways? If so, then we may be able to share in the joy of Lazarus and the new life of Christ's resurrection.

LIVING THE GOSPEL

Death for Life

The gospel writer paints the picture that Jesus is fully conscious of the implications of his return to Judea. As the events of the Passion unfold through this gospel, the reader has a very clear impression in their mind that if Jesus had not come to Judea; had not raised Lazarus; then he would not have been arrested and crucified. The reader is also drawn into the revelation that the sacrifice of Jesus was not solely for Lazarus but rather for all humanity. This realisation leads the reader to the ultimate humbling conclusion that if the sacrifice of Jesus was for people then the reader themselves is also the recipient of that sacrifice.

HOMILY OF POPE FRANCIS

The Gospel passage for this fifth Sunday of Lent is the resurrection of Lazarus (cf. Jn 11:1-45). Lazarus was Martha and Mary's brother; they were good friends of Jesus. When Jesus arrives in Bethany, Lazarus has already been dead for four days. Martha runs towards the Master and says to Him: "If you had been here, my brother would not have died!" (v. 21). Jesus replies to her: "Your brother will rise again" (v. 23) and adds: "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live" (v. 25). Jesus makes himself seen as the Lord of life, he who is capable of giving life even to the dead. Then Mary and other people arrive, in tears, and so Jesus — the Gospel says — "was deeply moved in spirit and troubled.... Jesus wept" (vv. 33, 35). With this turmoil in his heart, he goes to the tomb, thanks the Father who always listens to him, has the tomb opened and cries aloud: "Lazarus, come out!" (v. 43). And Lazarus emerges with "his hands and feet bound with bandages and his face wrapped with a cloth" (v. 44).

Here we can experience first hand that God is life and gives life, yet takes on the tragedy of death. Jesus could have avoided the death of his friend Lazarus, but he wanted to share in our suffering for the death of people dear to us, and above all, he wished to demonstrate God's dominion over death. In this Gospel passage we see that the faith of man and the omnipotence of God, of God's love, seek each other and finally meet. It is like a two-lane street: the faith of man and the omnipotence of God's love seek each other and finally meet. We see this in the cry of Martha and Mary, and of all of us with them: "If you had been here!". And God's answer is not a speech, no, God's answer to the problem of death is Jesus: "I am the resurrection and the life" ... have faith. Amid grief, continue to have faith, even when it seems that death has won. Take away the stone from your heart! Let the Word of God restore life where there is death. Today, too, Jesus repeats to us: "Take away the stone". God did not create us for the tomb, but rather he created us for life, [which is] beautiful, good, joyful. But "through the devil's envy death entered the world" (Wis 2:24) says the Book of Wisdom, and Jesus Christ came to free us from its bonds.

We are thus called to take away the stones of all that suggests death: for example, the hypocrisy with which faith is lived, is death; the destructive criticism of others, is death; insults, slander, are death; the marginalization of the poor, is death. The Lord asks us to remove these stones from our hearts, and life will then flourish again around us. Christ lives, and those who welcome him and follow him come into contact with life. Without Christ, or outside of Christ, not only is life not present, but one falls back into death.

The resurrection of Lazarus is also a sign of the regeneration that occurs in the believer through Baptism, with full integration within the Paschal Mystery of Christ. Through the action and power of the Holy Spirit, the Christian is a person who journeys in life as a new creature: a creature for life, who goes towards life.

May the Virgin Mary help us to be compassionate like her son Jesus, who made our suffering his own. May each of us be close to those who are in difficulty, becoming for them a reflection of God's love and tenderness, which frees us from death and makes life victorious.
