THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In her first public address after the death of her sons in Mexico, Debra Robinson, invited those listening to her to “live bigger, shine brighter, and love harder” as a testament to the life of her Callum and Jake. When faced with meaningless loss, we take courage by making the circumstances of those who remain bigger, brighter, and lovelier. Today, as we mark the Solemn Feast of the Lord's Ascension, we are encouraged to do the same. We hear in today's Gospel the invitation for us who have embraced the faith to proclaim Christ's message, the Good News, with gusto and fervor to the whole world. May our faith in the resurrected Lord reveal in our relationships and in our dealings that we are living life and making people's lives bigger, brighter, and lovelier as a testament to God's Good News.

I have spoken with Bishop Michael, who is very supportive of this proposal. Formation will be provided to those who will become part of this new team. Accordingly, I would like to invite anyone who may feel called to share their faith with others in this way, to please register your interest via this form: <https://forms.office.com/r/DdYEISwPUu>

BBI SHORT COURSE

Ethical Foundations: Human Dignity Mondays 20 & 27 May, 4pm -5:30pm

Human dignity is at the heart of all ethical and moral reasoning. What do we mean by human dignity? Why is it so important, that without it, we cannot properly act toward others, develop economic systems or know what is good or bad care of another human being?

Register to join us at the Diocesan Resource Centre, at home or as a parish group at <https://forms.office.com/r/7uMVUncy4f>

REFLECTION

BY FATHER MICHAEL TATE

When you think about it, Our Risen Lord could have continued to appear to groups of followers generation after generation until now! But He didn't. Why not?

He needed to wean His followers from His visible presence in part because He needed to overcome the natural tendency of human beings to be self-centred, in this case to think that the Resurrection was just for them.

He withdrew his visible presence in order to make it clear that other realms of creation were to share in His victory over death and decay, that the whole of creation is going to share in the transformation of life, which for human beings is experienced as the resurrection of the body.

St Paul paints a wonderful picture about this in the Epistle to the Romans. He portrays the universe as a woman groaning in childbirth, but full of expectation and hope. Hope for what? Saint Paul says that 'the creation itself would be set free from its slavery to decay in order to share the freedom associated with the glory of the children of God.'

Is this all delayed until the end of time? No. The transformation, the enhancing of the universe begins even now.

Even in our present state, ordinary human beings have a very remarkable significance for the whole universe.

Over the last few days, Mount Wellington has looked magnificent capped with snow, and the River Derwent has been wonderfully calm and tranquil. Every rock, every ripple has been visible in the clearest, brightest air.

But, one hundred thousand years ago Mount Wellington was never able to praise God for the beauty of the Derwent River, nor was the Derwent River able to praise God for the grandeur of Mt Wellington.

Mount Wellington, the Derwent River, indeed the whole universe needed human beings to look with the eye of intelligence attuned to beauty, to see it as the work of the Creator and to praise God for its splendour and loveliness. No doubt, the angels were able to do so but we are the inner heart and mind and voice of the whole of material creation.

So, even now, it is utterly different because of us, and even more utterly different because of the Resurrection.

The whole cosmos is filled with Our Lord's resurrection presence. There is a transforming Divine Power radiating through His glorified humanity, reaching out to every molecule and quantum of energy, to the farthest reaches of the most distant galaxies, to the eons of time back to the Big Bang, and able to affect every place and time in the future.

I believe that Our Lord did us a great favour in withdrawing His visible presence from us in the Ascension so that we can more easily get the 'Big Picture' as portrayed by St Paul.

Eventually the whole of creation will participate in Our Lord's resurrection. Like us, it will no longer be subject to exhaustion, entropy, disintegration and death.

In the meantime, at every Mass that Divine Resurrection Power is at work. After the invoking of the Holy Spirit, and the reciting of the words of consecration from the Last Supper, elements of the universe, wheat-bread, grapes-wine, become the Real Presence of Our Risen Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ – become His glorious Resurrection Body.

That is the reason I decided to become a priest. Imagine the privilege of being a servant of the Divine transformation of the whole of creation in the light of the Resurrection.

At every Mass, there is an anticipation of what Our Lord ascended to commence:

'... the creation itself would be set free ... in order to share the freedom associated with the glory of the children of God.'

When you come forward to receive those transformed elements of creation, you share in the destiny of the whole of creation!

LIVING THE GOSPEL

Proclaim Good News

Francis of Assisi is credited with saying, 'Preach the gospel at all times and when necessary, use words!' In every interaction we have we say so much about who we are, what we think of the other person and what we believe – even without opening our mouth. Our actions and attitudes proclaim our beliefs more powerfully than our words ever do. If we claim to be concerned about justice and yet behave unjustly then it is our actions, not our words, that will be heard! When we are called to 'proclaim the Good News' we are called to do this first and foremost in action.

REFLECTION DAY WITH SRE TEACHERS

Special Religious Education (SRE) offers a safe place for students in state schools to learn about Jesus' love and to discuss matters of faith, spirituality, and beliefs. For teachers, it is a response to a calling of journeying with young people as they come to know Jesus Christ, who loves and teaches love.

You are invited to join Bishop Michael Kennedy and the Special Religious Education teachers for a day of prayerful contemplation on 29 May 2024 commencing at 9am and finishing at 2.30pm. Starting with Mass, this is an occasion to listen to and engage in stories and experiences involving this ministry. An opportunity exists in the afternoon for us to visit the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd to learn about this sacred space where children use sensory-rich materials and Montessori principles to explore their relationship with God.

Morning tea and lunch will be provided. Register at <https://forms.office.com/r/iaKTYrJHt7>

This event is also great for anyone who is interested in becoming an SRE teacher or has been one in the past.

SPIRITUAL CONTEXT: ACTS

Throughout this Easter season, the first reading in the Sunday liturgy is taken from the Acts of the Apostles and so both the first and second readings come from the New Testament. (Normally, the First Reading is taken from the Old Testament.) This week's first reading account of the Ascension is the very beginning of the book of Acts. This book and the Gospel of Luke are now recognised as being by the same author. The book of Acts records the events involving the followers of Jesus after his death and the growth of communities of believers who sought to follow Jesus' ways.

SPREAD THE GOOD NEWS

A REFLECTION BY ANNE MILLARD

I played for a funeral this week. The son of the deceased told me a story about the kindness of the ladies in the bakery around the corner from the hospital where his mum spent her last few months. His mum didn't like hospital food, so he frequented the bakery to bring her some tempting treats.

Over the weeks he got to know those ladies. After his mum died, he dropped into the bakery to let them know. Although there were other customers both ladies stopped what they were doing to shed a tear as they shared a moment of grief and loss. "That's so Newcastle", the son told me. That's so Newcastle. How fabulous that our city is thought of as a place where people care.

The streets around where I live are all crazy narrow. We play roulette navigating them; drive a bit then duck into an empty spot to let another car through. Frankly, I kind of enjoy the adrenaline of it all. I'm delighted when other drivers let me through, and I go out of my way to give them a smile and a wave. Maybe a bit too much actually.

While I'm usually generous at pulling aside to let other cars through, I really like a wave or gesture of thanks. I like my kindness to be acknowledged. In fact, I'm pretty miffed if I don't get a wave and have been known to think unkind thoughts.

In today's Gospel we're told to "Go out to the whole world; proclaim the Good News to all creation." Rumour has it St Francis of Assisi said: "Preach the Gospel at all times. If necessary, use words."

While we may not go somewhere exotic or do heroic work to proclaim the Good News., we live the Gospel in the everyday. The ladies in the bakery lived the Gospel—they did their job while caring about those they served. I'd like to think I'm living the Gospel when I give way to other drivers. But it seems I require thanks for my act of service. The Gospel doesn't say Go out to the whole world; proclaim the Good News to all creation and you will receive thanks and praise.

What about you?
