THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Once again, we come to our diocese's Perpetual Day of Remembrance, decreed by our Late Bishop Bill Wright in 2020. Its date, 15th September, corresponds with the Memorial of Our Lady of Sorrows. This year it falls on a Sunday.

The readings, which were specially chosen for this very important day in our calendar, remain the same each year because their theme is one of light and hope, against a background of pain and sorrow. At this time, we particularly pray for all those, especially children, who over many years suffered abuse at the hands of clergy and others within our Church. We pray for peace and healing.

PERPETUAL DAY OF REMEMBRANCE

September 15, promulgated as a 'Perpetual Day of Remembrance' in our diocese, marks a day of solemn remembrance of the harm caused by a history of child sexual abuse and failure to protect children. It has two aspects: one focused on supporting survivors and the other on the prayer of the whole church. This year Perpetual Day of Remembrance Sunday falls on September 15. As a people of faith, we can pray for a change of heart as the ground of hope for a safer future for all. Special prayer resources are available online at www.mn.catholic.org.au/church-mission/perpetual-day-of-remembrance Every person is invited to use and help disseminate as widely as possible the resource for individuals and households. POPE FRANCIS ON JOY

"Instead of imposing new obligations, [Christians] should appear as people who wish to share their joy, who point to a horizon of beauty and who invite others to a delicious banquet."

SEASONS FOR GROWTH

No season lasts forever, not even winter.

Our lives, like the seasons, are constantly changing. These changes often involve many losses and deep grief. Learning how to recognise and adapt to the stressful events and changed circumstances we experience, as well as the ongoing challenges these may bring helps to bring peace and hope into our lives.

The Seasons for Growth small group, peer-based educational program offers the opportunity for individual reflection and group discussion by gently and symbolically using the metaphor of the seasons to support adults to:

- Learn about how different people respond to change, loss and grief
- Understand that it is normal to experience a range of grief reactions
- Explore new approaches to dealing with change, loss and grief in their lives
- Build communication, decision making and problem solving skills
- Participate in a supportive network of peers and adults

Integrate their new learning into their relationships with family, friends and others.

Please consider joining this supportive space during November, 2024 if you would like to share conversation and learn together with others who are also navigating the different seasons of life and loss.

To indicate your interest, please complete the form available here by link or QR code.

POPE: CARE FOR CREATION IS AN ETHICAL AND THEOLOGICAL ISSUE

Pope Francis releases his message for the 2024 World Day of Prayer for the Care of Creation, and appeals for humanity's conversion so that we acknowledge the disastrous effects of war and set ethical limits on the development of artificial intelligence.

By Deborah Castellano Lubov

Humanity's abuse of nature requires a true conversion and invites us to change our lifestyles.

Pope Francis made this appeal in his message for the World Day of Prayer for the Care of Creation, to be held on September 1, 2024, which was published Thursday.

The Day's theme this year is "Hope and Act with Creation," drawn from Saint Paul's Letter to the Romans (8:19-25), in which the Apostle explains what it means for us to live according to the Spirit, and focuses on the sure hope of salvation that is born of faith, namely, the newness of life in Christ.

The message signed by Pope Francis on June 27 is broken up into nine sections, which all highlight our responsibility to take care of our Common Home. It stresses that, as Christians called to live in faith and charity, caring for the environment is "a task to be undertaken freely, in obedience to Jesus' commandment of love."

"Creation itself, like humanity, was enslaved, albeit through no fault of its own," the Pope laments, observing that it "finds itself unable to fulfil the lasting meaning and purpose for which it was designed."

The environment, the Pope decries, "is subject to dissolution and death, aggravated by the human abuse of nature." Yet, at the same time, he reassures, "the salvation of humanity in Christ is a sure hope also for creation, for, 'the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to decay and obtain the glorious liberty of the children of God.'"

"In our hopeful and persevering expectation of the glorious return of Jesus," Pope Francis notes, "the Holy Spirit keeps us, the community of believers, vigilant."

The Spirit, he reassures, "continually guides us and calls us to conversion, to a change in lifestyle in order to resist the degradation of our environment and to engagement in that social critique, which is above all a witness to the real possibility of change."

The Holy Father goes on to explain that hoping and acting with creation means joining forces and walking together with all men and women of good will. In this way, we can help to rethink, "among other things, the question of human power, its meaning and its limits."

In this context, the Pope says, "there is an urgent need to set ethical limits on the development of artificial intelligence, since its capacity for calculation and simulation could be used for domination over humanity and nature, instead of being harnessed for the service of peace and integral development," as he quoted his 2024 Message for the World Day of Peace. The Pope decries how much evil there is in the world. "Why so much injustice, so many fratricidal wars that kill children, destroy cities, pollute the environment and leave mother earth violated and devastated?" the Pope questions, as he suggested that "the entire universe and every creature therein groans and yearns impatiently for its present condition to be overcome and its original state to be restored."

14 years of war in Syria have led to illegal logging and eroded what was once a lush forest near the Mount Abdulaziz nature reserve

"To claim the right to possess and dominate nature, manipulating it at will," he underscores, "represents a form of idolatry, a Promethean version of man who, intoxicated by his technocratic power, arrogantly places the earth in a "dis-graced" condition, deprived of God's grace."

Creation, the Pope recalls, is "not static or closed in on itself," but is "continuously drawn towards its future." Protecting creation, the Holy Father explains, "is not only an ethical issue, but one that is eminently theological, for it is the point where the mystery of man and the mystery of God intersect."

We are free, he notes, "precisely because we were created in the image of God who is Jesus Christ, and, as a result, are "representatives" of creation in Christ Himself."

The Pope says that creation awaits "the revelation of the children of God" as it suffers "as in the pangs of childbirth."

"At stake, Pope Francis warns, is not only our earthly life in history, but also, and above all, our future in eternity."

The Pope encourages the faithful to remember their identity as "children of the Father," suggesting that we are empowered to effectuate concrete change amid living holy lives.

In this way, the message concludes, "our lives can become a song of love for God, for humanity, with and for creation, and find their fullness in holiness."

REFLECTION

The cross is today the universal image of Christian belief. Countless generations of artists have turned it into a thing of beauty to be carried in procession or worn as jewelry. To the eyes of the first Christians, it had no beauty. It stood outside too many city walls, decorated only with decaying corpses, as a threat to anyone who defied Rome's authority—including Christians who refused sacrifice to Roman gods. Although believers spoke of the cross as the instrument of salvation, it seldom appeared in Christian art unless disguised as an anchor or the Chi-Rho until after Constantine's edict of toleration.
